WHEREAS, logistics are part of our everyday lives and play a pivotal role to our local economy. The passion for excellence of the logistics industry brings about good, family-sustaining jobs in the City of Erie and around the globe;

WHEREAS, Logistics Plus has vastly expanded its services and trade opportunities to both small and large businesses through truck, rail, sea, and air. They have grown from a three-person operation to over 500 employees at 50 offices in 22 countries, and over $150 million in annual global revenue;

WHEREAS, the men and women of the logistics industry contribute to our rich diversity and provide economic, cultural, political, and religious interactions every day;

WHEREAS, newer technologies such as Application Programming Interfaces (APIs), Artificial Intelligence (AI), and Blockchain streamline data transmission and communication across the logistics industry ensuring sound environmental, community, and economic outcomes in the process;

NOW, THEREFORE, I, Joseph V. Schember, Mayor of the City of Erie, proclaim this twenty-eighth day of June as National Logistics Day in the City of Erie. It is my hope that all Erie residents recognize and appreciate the importance of the logistics industry in our local, national, and global economies.
