We Keep Your Supply Chain Flying High

With tight delivery requirements from your customers and the high cost of logistics, you need a reliable partner willing and able to do more for you. Logistics Plus is a young company that understands the day-to-day needs for great logistics support, but also the unique requirements of the Aerospace and Defense industry.

As a manufacturer or service organization in A&D you face greater pressures for quality, delivery and costs every day, but there are also significant new demands from changing markets. Where the market grows fastest is in countries like India, China, and Brazil, and if your support requirements extend there, we can help you serve those customers as well as you look after the domestic market.

We have 20+ domestic offices to give you hands-on support, and we have our own offices in 20+ countries around the world. Where we don't have our own offices, we have a network of trusted brokers who are committed to our service standards and will provide the same outstanding coverage that our customers have come to expect.
